Soviet Leaders Plan for War, American Says

Conclusions Based On Observation as Reporter in Moscow

(Editor's Note: What are the calculations of the Soviet leadership on war or peace? How is the great monolithic state being geared for the eventuality of conflict? Edmund Stevens, staff correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, recently left Moscow after more than 10 years of close observation of Russian affairs from both sides of the iron curtain. Fresh from a three-year assignment in the Russian capital, he has tried to answer the most anxious questions of Westerners concerning the enigma that is the Soviet Union today. This is the first of a series of four articles digesting his findings, as published by the Christian Science Monitor in 40 installments. The editors of the Monitor made Stevens' material available to the Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The leaders of the Kremlin are bent on eventual war with the West, if they can get away with it, says an American reporter who recently left Moscow.

Bud Edmund Stevens, back from a three-year assignment as correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor in Russia, says he is convinced today more than ever that "the world's future depends on understanding between the United States and the Soviet Union."

Soviet aims and policies have, since the war, become plain for all to see—expansion through superimposing the Communist system, Stevens writes.

But the foremost question today is this: do the Soviet leaders, who have an atom bomb now, want war?

The answer, the correspondent says, is "no—and yes." For the immediate future, he said, the answer is no. But in the long view, with the shifting of World power in the Kremlin's favor, the answer is yes. The Communist leaders always have predicted the inevitable bloody clash of capitalism and Communism.

She said the employees here have been given notices. They will continue with the production of stick candy until Friday, when equipment will stop running.

After Friday, about 10 supervisory and maintenance personnel will remain on the job, helping wind up affairs and assisting in getting the equipment shipped out or otherwise disposed of before March 1.

The building which housed the candy factory was leased from the Midland Grocery Co.

What will happen to the 65 employees of the candy factory remained conjectural Tuesday. It is understood that the Chamber of Commerce is negotiating to get a new industry to come to this city. There have been no promises in this regard, however.

Many of the employees who will be thrown out of work with the closing of the factory are women.

Phone Strike Is Postponed Until Feb. 24

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The CIO-Communications Workers today postponed until Feb. 24 a nationwide telephone strike that had been called for tomorrow at 6 A. M.

Mediation Director Cyrus S. Ching had asked for the postponement to permit more time for conciliators to try to settle the dispute.

Union President Joseph A. Beirne of the union said the nine-man executive board had voted to postpone the strike in the hope a settlement could be brought about in the meantime.

Along with asking a postponement of the strike call, Ching called for "intensified bargaining."

Beirne said a postponement order was sent to the unions whose 100,000 workers were to walk out tomorrow in the first wave of strikes aimed at shutting down the entire Bell Telephone System.

The new strike deadline is 6 A. M., local time, on Friday, Feb. 24. Ching based his plea for a postponement on the public interest.

37 Ohio Strip Mines Reclaim 1018 Acres

WOOSTER, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Thirty-seven Ohio strip mine operators have reclaimed 1018 acres of spoiled land, the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station reported today.

Forestry Chairman O. D. Miller said 184 acres were planted to trees, 120 acres to grasses and legumes and the remainder to miscellaneous crops.

The state is conducting a program of reclaiming spoil banks.

Another Dividend in Prospect On Vet Insurance Next Year

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—There's another big dividend on World War II veterans' life insurance coming up next year.

It won't be nearly as large as the $2,800,000,000 payment now being distributed, but it will run into millions.

The Veterans Administration has informed Congress it plans to pay out about 65 percent of the new special dividend in the first six months of 1951, and the rest before the end of that year.

Thereafter, said H. W. Breining, VA's insurance administrator, the National Service Life Insurance program probably will start paying dividends annually in the years when a surplus is available.

"We have no idea of the amount that will be available for the 1951 dividend payment," Breining told a reporter.

The current $2,800,000,000 dividend is from a surplus that developed during the first eight years of the program—from 1940 through the 1948 anniversary date of each of the 20,000,000 policies issued to 16,500,000 World War II veterans.

The forthcoming special dividend, Breining said, will cover three policy years, through the 1951 anniversary date of each policy.

The current dividend is being paid on all policies that were in force three months or longer.

Breining said the 1951 payments probably will be made only on policies in force for a year or longer. It will, however, cover policies that lapsed during the three years as well as those still in force, he said.

Overpayments to veterans under laws administered by VA will be deducted from those checks as they are from the current dividend, Breining said.

Neighbors Are Sick of Gang Boss After Home Bombed for Sixth Time

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Mickey Cohen is "very sick in the stomach" as a result of the bombing of his home, but he's not the only one.

His neighbors are pretty sick, too, they say.

"I'd sure like to see him go, but I hate to wish him off on any other neighborhood," Mrs. Susan Erhardt told a reporter. Mrs. Erhardt lives at 520 Moreno Ave. Cohen's address is 513 Moreno Ave.

Mrs. George Cleveland, 526 Moreno Ave., said, "It's dangerous for our small children, and besides it's hard on the property values."

Matters took an official turn when Deputy Police Chief Thad Brown called Cohen on the carpet.

"A lot of innocent people may be killed or injured on account of you," Brown blasted. "Two children across the street were nearly killed. A piece of plate glass lodged against the throat of one of the girls."

Cohen said he had no explanation for yesterday's bombing, but he added:

"I feel very bad about my neighbors."

It was the sixth time in four years that Cohen apparently escaped death by a narrow margin. Two men, Harry Rothman and Edward Herbert, have been killed by gun slugs seemingly aimed at Cohen.

Cohen estimated the loss at $50,000 and said he believed it was covered by insurance.

Police today began a roundup of what they called underworld figures reportedly "hostile" to Cohen, mobster whose home was bombed yesterday.

Seized in the rout were Joe Sica, 38, and his brother, Fred, 25; James R. Iannone, 41, and Salvatore Piscope, 54. All but Iannone were booked on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon. Iannone, also known as Louie Marli, was questioned and then released.

The Sica brothers currently are free on $7,500 bond on federal narcotics charges. Federal agents several weeks ago named them as ringleaders of an extensive west coast dope peddling and smuggling ring.

Joe Sica once was regarded as an associate and friend of Cohen.

Other officers elected were Charles Mustine, treasurer, and Tom Mark, secretary.

One of the projects which the new administration of the YBM will be faced is the improvement of the infield of the Fayette County Fairgrounds track.

Following a report on the possibility of taking some action along this line by Mark, the YBM voted to make the beautification of the infield one of its projects for 1950.

Suggestion was made that one of the first parts of the beautification program which could be undertaken would be the planting of grass in the infield. The YBM members were in agreement that this part of the program could be undertaken even though the Fairgrounds was the subject of some litigation at the present time.

Changes in Constitution

A change was voted for the YBM constitution which cuts the requirements for voting. Under the old provisions a member had to attend six meetings to be eligible to vote.

Under the new set-up, the constitution calls for two types of memberships—the voting membership, which requires attendance at four meetings, and an active membership, which requires attendance at two meetings during the year.

Prospective members would be required under another change voted to the constitution Monday night to make oral requests for membership in the YBM to the membership committee. The committee would have the power to place the person's name on the active membership roll.

The YBM voted to hold its next meeting March 6 at the Hotel Washington Banquet Room. At this meeting the newly elected officers will be installed to their positions.

There were about 30 members present Monday night. Among those on hand was Fred Rost, former executive secretary of the Washington C. H. Chamber of Commerce, and one of the leaders in the formation of the YBM in this city.

The meeting was presided over by Hal Summers, outgoing president. Other outgoing officers of the group include the following: William Junk, vice president; Joe White, secretary, and Homer Bireley, treasurer.

Miss Bergman and actress Rita Hayworth were the subjects of a resolution in Springfield, O. yesterday.

The Clark County Ministerial Association, mentioning the two actresses, opposed the showing of all films that star actors and actresses "involved in publicized scandal."

The Clark County Council of Churches sent a similar resolution Saturday to operators of the county's 20 theaters.

Miss Bergman, still married to a California physician, became the mother of a boy last Thursday in Rome, Roberto Rossellini, director of "Stromboli," has been quoted as admitting he is the father of her child.

Councilman Walter R. Snider voted against the motion, saying it make a "test case" of the picture if Duffy approves a recall.

He said he will base his rejection on a section of the law which gives the department of education authority to recall and reject a film "when in the judgment of the department, the public welfare requires it."

Columbus City Council last night passed a motion, six to one, asking a downtown theater not to show the film.

Speaking of the film's actress, Miss Bergman, Councilman Frank H. Kearns said:

"The way she leads her private life is not to be jammed down the throats of the good citizens of Columbus."

Fire Plan Gets Boost at Meet

Sabina Officials Evidence Interest

Plans for setting up a plan of rural fire protection for Fayette County received a boost Monday night at a meeting of the Sabina town council with trustees of Wayne and Richland Townships in Clinton County and trustees of Jasper and Concord Townships in Fayette County.

The meeting, held in Sabina, was presided over by Robert Nunn, mayor of that community. Others present from Sabina included the councilmen, Charles Bower, chairman of the safety committee, and Clem Pollard, chairman of the council, and Darrell Woodruff, fire chief.

Homer Morrow, president of the Fayette County Township Trustees and Clerks Association, and Ralph R. Penn, secretary of the Fayette County rural fire protection committee, made a brief presentation of the rural fire plan.

The plan calls for cooperation and interlocking agreements between Sabina and other villages with various townships surrounding the various communities.

William H. Cheesman of the fire prevention bureau of the state fire marshal's office explained in detail what could be accomplished by cooperative agreements.

While no commitments were made by any of the Clinton County trustees or the Sabina town officials, the plan reportedly met with favor.

Saturday, Penn talked to Dwight Parrett, mayor of Greenfield. Parrett reported that residents of that community are anxious to get a plan for rural fire protection into operation as soon as possible.

Greenfield has made plans to cover Madison and Buckskin townships in Highland and Ross Counties. Leaders here hope that Greenfield will be able to take care of parts of Perry and Wayne townships in Fayette County.

LOST 32 LBS., RENNEL HELPS CLEVELAND MAN

"Before starting with Rennel I always seemed tired and my legs ached from walking only a few blocks," writes Mr. John H. Steele, Dep. Sheriff of Cuyahoga County, 3414 E. 137th St. Cleveland 20, Ohio. "I have lost 32 lbs. since taking Rennel, feel better and can sincerely recommend Rennel to anyone who is overweight."
It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly cows grading common downward and common and medium grade steers and heifers; less aggressive buyer action steady to weak prices; few good 700 lb heifers $26; largely med-of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender more youthful curves—if by reducing excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active. Insist on genuine Rennel.

Grain Market

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Grains found little support at today's Board of Trade session, following yesterday's sharp closing advance.
Although there were indications of new export business, wheat failed to hold its gains, and corn was easy throughout the session.
Oats was the only grain to show strength. It advanced on reports that the army is in the market for around 800,000 bushels of the feed grain, but considerable of the early mark-up was lost toward the close.

The cash basis for corn was termed unchanged to 1/2 cent lower and oats were called steady to easier.

Financial Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Constant pressure pushed the stock market lower all along the line today.
Losses piled up to more than a point in some cases although generally they were limited to fractions.
For a short time immediately after the opening the market showed a degree of stability but it was short-lived. The coal situation was a major topic of discussion in the financial district.

While the GOP platform was finished in plenty of time for the big meeting, approval was not unanimous.

Senator Lodge (R-Mass.) said he and "four or five others" voted against it in a conference of all Republican senators.

Lodge, who headed the platform-drafting committee at the party's 1948 presidential nominating convention, called the declaration "a disappointment in several ways." He said he wanted the statement to pledge the Republicans to give every aid toward breaking an expected southern Democratic filibuster in the Senate on civil rights.

AT PENNEY'S

The Nation Today

BY G. MILTON KELLY
(For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—(P)—The government is putting out $80,000,000 a month to help people buy homes.

With the volume on the up-grade—and the end not in sight—Congress is looking for a way to shift some of the burden back to private investors.

Here's what's happening:
Under certain conditions, the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) and the Veterans Administration (VA) insure banks against taking a loss on loans which go into home purchases and construction.

The FHA figures that it is insuring loans running to $350,000,000 a month. Of this, $200,000,000 a month, is to help people buying dwelling places. Veterans loans under the GI Bill run to $80,000,000.

Another government agency, the Federal National Mortgage Association (FNMA) was created by Congress to buy FHA and VA insured mortgages from private investors, so that the investors would have more money to lend.

Of the $2,500,000,000 with which it started out, FNMA has $800,000,000 left, and private investors are turning in their FHA and veteran insured mortgages at a rate which, FNMA says, hit $80,000,000 in December.

The FHA says it is working on a bill now, at the invitation of the Senate Banking Committee, which might ease the situation.

"The idea," a spokesman explained, "is to make available an additional half billion dollars or more, without having to appropriate it out of current tax revenues."

"We are casting about for a plan that would encourage private investors to take over some of the mortgages the government now holds, and to encourage them to meet some of the demand for mortgages that otherwise would fall on the government."

Congress, he explained, seems reluctant to appropriate huge sums for the program, but feels the housing industry is too valuable a source of national prosperity to allow it to be cut back now.

FNMA is a branch of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. There is quiet talk in Congress of transferring FNMA to some other agency, and putting a damper on other lending powers of the RFC.

There are signs that this will cause a fight if it is attempted.

A complicating factor if the battle in and out of Congress over $7,500,000 of RFC loans to the Lustron Corp., a big prefabricated housing firm in Columbus, Ohio. The RFC says Lustron is in default of its debt, and is threatening to foreclose.

Lustron loans have nothing to do with loans to individual home buyers.

But mention the words "housing" and "loans" in the same sentence in Congress, and you are pretty apt to stir up a fight over Lustron that may cause everybody to forget the issue before them.

Gas Available For 60 Years

Capacity Increased By More Gas Mains

With a great many more users of natural gas being added in this city and community and additional gas mains being built across the country, it is interesting to know—that there probably is sufficient gas to last at least 60 years.

This information comes from the Ohio State University Research Foundation, which states that more than 7,000,000 houses or about one-sixth of the nation's total, are heated with natural gas.

A bulletin issued by the foundation states that on the basis of present use supplies of natural gas may last for 60 years. Use is growing so rapidly that reserves might lag behind. Just now, it is explained, scarcity of pipelines, not gas supply, limits the use of natural gas.

Storing gas in exhausted wells is a recent development which greatly aids in building up a reserve supply where necessary, it is pointed out.

The Ohio Fuel Gas Co., which supplies gas to this community through The Dayton Power and Light Co., has underground storage space in Ohio, for nearly 60,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas or about one-third of the average year's consumption in the state.

Additional millions are to receive gas under proposed extension of the Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation into New England.

Jet Refueling Plans Tested

Two Systems Used For Mid-air Job

BY JAMES J. STREIB
WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Air Force has tests under way both in England and the United States for refueling jet fighters in flight.

Mid-air refueling, spectacularly demonstrated by a B-50 bomber's non-stop trip around the world, has a high priority in Air Force plans. It is expected to add a lot of range and versatility to the jet's great speed.

The tests some 6,000 miles apart compare two quite different systems. One is a British method which permits a tanker plane to fuel three fighters at once. The other is an American system which permits fueling only one at a time. The Republic F-84 thunderjet, an Air Force workhorse being used for tactical low level ground support fighting as well as high altitude combat and escort missions, is being used in both tests. Neither test has reached the fuel transfer stage yet.

The British work is being done at Parnant-Rushon Royal Air Force Base near London using a system developed by Flight Refueling, Ltd.

The system developed by Boeing Airplane Company is being tested at Seattle, Wash.

British System
In the British system the tanker plane trails a hose with a tunnel-shaped tip called a Drogue. The fighter pilot maneuvers his plane into position behind this, then rams a nozzle or probe, extending from the plane's nose or wing, into the Drogue. The nozzle is held in position by a pressure catch until fueling has been completed. The connection is broken by slowing the fighter. A full load can be taken aboard in a few minutes. The goal is one minute.

In the Boeing system the tanker has a boom extending from its tail. A controller in what is normally the tail gunner's position guides this boom into a fueling inlet on a forward section of the fighter. The fuel is passed rapidly under high pressure.

Jet engines burn fuel very rapidly. Usually they stay up only two or three hours. However, the British have kept a fighter in flight nine hours by mid-air refueling.

Four Advantages

Military experts look for these advantages when jet planes are regularly supplied in flight:

1. Jets may be able to escort long range bombers like the B-36 to their target. B-36-type tankers could go along to supply the fighters. The Navy has used this principle for years to enable fuel-hungry destroyers to escort battleships and aircraft carriers.

2. Weather will be all but eliminated in planning jet operations. The jets will be able to fly over bases "socked in" by clouds and take on fuel to reach the next stop. Long ferrying flights, such as moving a fighter group to Europe from the United States, can be done non-stop in six to eight hours. Short range weather forecasts can be used.

3. Jets can be refueled in flight during combat simply by retreating a few minutes' behind the battle area. It would cut the number of planes needed to provide around-the-clock protection.

4. Jet transports will be benefited in the same way that in-flight refueling is expected to help ferry fighters. Under present conditions, a jet plane required to refuel on the ground in a transatlantic flight is unlikely to average much better than a propeller plane.

The British have the same kind of lead on the United States in mid-air refueling that they had in jet engine development. They started sooner and have much more experience in both short range and long range tests. The British ran a series of transatlantic passenger plane in-flight refueling tests several years ago.

Bicyclists Immune To Police Whistle

DIJON—(AP)—When Claude Jacquemin, farm laborer, rode his bicycle home without a red rear light he really started something. The policeman, who whistled at him in vain, hailed him into court as being in control of a vehicle which failed to stop. The magistrate, ruling that "a bicycle is not a vehicle because it has no axle," released him.

The public prosecutor appealed against the decision and Jacquemin found himself in the appeal court here, listening while learned lawyers argued it out. In the end Jacquemin won. The Dijo appeal court decided that after all a bicycle was not a vehicle.

CHICAGO—(AP)—The taxpayer is getting a better break.

The cost of replacing shattered windows in Chicago's public schools is going down. Broken panes numbered 33,916 last year. In 1946, when a campaign to keep windows in one piece began, 60,799 were broken.

DAYTON, Feb. 7—(AP)—It has been pretty quiet in Dayton during the last three days.

The Dayton Ambulance Service, which makes emergency runs for the police department, at 10 A. M. today had not received a call for 71 hours.

The previous record for non-activity was 48 hours.

Rescuer Drowns After Four Saved

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 7—(AP)—A volunteer YMCA worker drowned after saving four boys from the same fate yesterday.

Don Whitlase, 18, of the Chicago suburb of Melrose Park, was in a skiff which turned over with four boys at Fontainebleau State Park, north of here.

William McLachlin, YMCA director of boys activities, said Whitlase righted the boat and placed the boys so they could hold on until help arrived. One youngster slipped and Whitlase helped him regain his hold. "A few moments later Don slipped into the water feet first and disappeared," McLachlin said. "He must have been exhausted with saving the kids. I consider him a hero."

The boys, eight and nine years old, were rescued by campers in the area.

Cadillac presents FOUR NEW SERIES OF CARS...

The Series Sixty Special Sedan

..All Dramatically Restyled...and Powered by Cadillac's Sensational New Engine !

TODAY, we are presenting, for your consideration, the finest, most beautiful motor cars we have ever been privileged to announce.

They are the new Cadillacs for 1950—and we want you to come and see them.

We not only want you to see them—but we think you should see them. For to see and inspect these wonderful creations will make you a sharper judge of all cars—and increase your motor-car wisdom in every respect.

There are four entirely new series of cars—all with wholly new bodies, and all completely restyled. We think you'll agree that nothing so sleek and dynamic and beautiful has ever been seen on the world's streets and highways. They are arrestingly and breath-takingly gorgeous—and all are distinctively Cadillac.

And not only are they advanced in beauty—but their performance is finer in every way.

Cadillac's great new high-compression engine is even smoother; it is actually quicker in acceleration; and it runs so quietly that only the indicators reveal when it is in action. It is simply wonderful to drive.

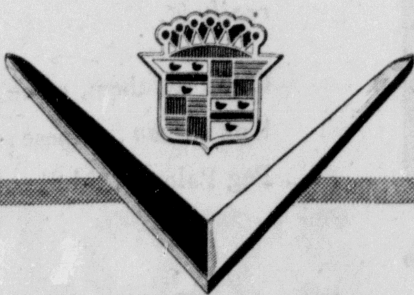

And—difficult as this will be for owners of 1949 Cadillacs to believe—the 1950 cars are even more economical to operate. Gasoline mileage really approaches that of the smaller, lowest-priced cars. It is no less than amazing that cars so big and luxurious should run so far on a gallon of gasoline.

Comfort and handling ease are also remarkably advanced. There is far finer road balance and over-all steadiness at all driving speeds. Steering is softer and more positive. Brakes are more efficient and longer-lived. The over-all satisfaction of driving—from every standpoint—is simply "out of this world."

Truly, here are cars so fine and beautiful that they deserve your personal consideration.

Make your plans now to come in and see them. You will be cordially welcome at any time.

conducted the business session during which reports of committee chairmen were heard. A bridge party for members was planned for Tuesday February 14 at the Dayton Power and Light club rooms.

The following members were elected to the nominating committee to select officers for the coming year: Mrs. Joe F. Loudner, Mrs. Leo McDaniels, Mrs. Harry Campbell, Miss Patti Maddox, and Mrs. Henry Zeigler.

For the cultural program Mrs. Zeigler spoke on the topic "The Good of Action." She told of the value of activity, as in exercise for play, skill, pleasure and health.

As a creative force, making things as a means to wealth and happiness.

As in purposive conduct which is the expression of will according to personal behavior or social custom.

Mrs. Thomas Flynn used as her topic, "The Truth of Action." She described the following process of action: stimulus and response, reflex action, facilitation, inhibition and instructive action. Mrs. William Allen, spoke on "The Beauty of Action," under that she spoke on objective action—grace of movements as in dancing, swimming or running.

Subjective action which action is an expression of lone courage, kindness, courtesy and all expansive emotions. A round table discussion followed on these interesting subjects. During the social hour, the hostesses, Mrs. John Rhoads, Mrs. Loren Wilson, and Mrs. Charles Spetnagel served light refreshments.

Senator Albert L. Daniels Speaks at DAR Meeting

Senator Albert L. Daniels, of Greenfield, was guest speaker Monday when the Washington Court House Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met in regular session at the beautiful home of Mrs. A. S. Stenler.

This February 6 meeting was designated at "National Defense Day."

Mrs. John M. Weade, regent, opened the meeting with the customary ritualistic form and presided during the business session which followed.

Mrs. D. H. Rowe, chaplain, led the devotions, Miss Corda McCafferty led the salute to the flag, and the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

Mrs. Walter E. McCoy read the February message from the president general.

The secretary's report was read and accepted and the secretary then read a letter from Mrs. James B. Patton, vice president general, in which she extended good wishes to her "home" chapter.

The Martha Washington Junior Committee reported a gift of ten dollars from them to the March of Dimes.

The state chairman for motion pictures is offering a prize to any Ohio high school senior writing the best one-page paper on the subject, "What Motion Pictures Mean To Me."

Miss Kathleen Davis of the Washington High School had fourteen papers turned in on the subject. They will be judged by a committee of three members of the Washington Court House Chapter and the local winner will be entertained at the February 22 tea, and her paper submitted to the state chairman of motion pictures.

The state chairman for the redecorating of the D.A.R. Museum Ohio Room, asked that each chapter take a silver offering.

The chapter chairman, Mrs. E. T. Rockwell did this and four dollars and ninety cents will go from this chapter toward the redecorating.

Mrs. Weade, regent, called on Mrs. Forest Allen DeBra to read the brief and dramatic "Lincoln" from Living Biographies of American Statesmen, by Harry Thomas and Dan Lee Thomas.

After Mrs. DeBra's reading, the regent introduced the speaker for the afternoon, Senator Albert L. Daniels.

Senator Daniels is a splendid and forceful speaker. He urged that all take a deeper interest in making our Democracy work. "Our fore-fathers gave to the world the sublime example of statesmen who cast off the tyrant and built up the sovereign people. We must go back to our constitution and to the example set by our national fathers. We must build up once again the energies of a free people."

At the close of Senator Daniels talk, a social hour followed.

Mrs. Stenler was assisted in the serving of a delicious collation by Mrs. Loren Hynes, Mrs. Robert Terhune, Mrs. C. V. Lanum, Mrs. Eliza Waddell, Mrs. Edgar Coll, Mrs. Edgar Snyder, Mrs. John R. Morehouse, Mrs. Fred Enslin, Mrs. John D. Forsythe, Mrs. Henry Willis, Mrs. Paul Pennington and Mrs. Robert R. Link.

Mrs. Albert L. Daniels accompanied the senator and was a welcome guest. Mrs. L. P. Howell of Glen Ellyn, Ill., an out-of-town member of the chapter, was also present at the meeting.

Eastern Star Celebrates Founders Day

About thirty-two members of Forest Chapter No. 122, Order of Eastern Star, Bloomingburg, celebrated the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Order by Robert Morris, on Monday evening, following the regular stated meeting.

The program consisted of a pageant under the direction of the worthy patron and matron, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Mason. The hall was softly lighted with white and pastel candles. Mrs. Zoe Garinger gave the biography of Robert Morris, and Mrs. Robert Moyer, interesting the pageant with vocal solos, and each officer participated in the colorful pageant.

A large birthday cake used in the termination of the program, was served during a social hour following, with accompanying delicacies.

The committee in charge of the refreshments was Mrs. Earl Downs, chairman, Mrs. Jess Schlichter and Mrs. Richard Hunter.

Phi Beta Psi Sorority To Be Hostess Chapter At Convention in May

Mrs. Alfred Hagler extended the hospitality of her spacious country home on Monday evening when the members of Phi Beta Psi Sorority assembled for the regular February meeting. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. A. B. McDonald, Mrs. Richard Willis, and Mrs. Ervin P. Miller.

The business session was presided over by Miss Clara Story, president during which a lengthy discussion was held on plans for the sorority convention to be held at the Washington Country Club, May 6-7.

Reports of the several committees showed gratifying progress which is being made.

Plans were also completed for the Annual Founders' Day dinner to be held at the Washington Country Club, Wednesday February 14, with Miss Amelia Pensyl as chairman of the arrangements assisted by Mrs. Walter Fults, Mrs. Frank Weade, Mrs. Ralph Taylor, Mrs. Harford Hankins, Miss Patti Persinger and Mrs. Harris D. Willis.

It was announced that the sorority would accept the sponsorship of the National Cance Fund Drive, here which will be held in April.

The lengthy business session was brought to a close, and the members were invited to a beautifully appointed tea table carrying out a St. Valentine theme in red and white, lighted with red tapers and centered with a winter garden where the tempting delicacies were served. Mrs. William Junk and Miss Clara Story presided over the silver service at either end of the table.

Later in a unique game, potted plants used as decorations throughout the rooms were presented Mrs. Charles Hire, Mrs. Harold Friend and Mrs. Harris D. Willis.

Rent Adjuster Aids Tenants And Landlords

Consultant Finds Many Problems To Iron Out

Appointment of a landlord-tenant consultant to help tenants and small property owners is turning out to be a two-way benefit, Area Rent Director John B. Barton reported yesterday.

Eugen L. Smith has the local responsibility of assisting both tenants and landlords in solving their rental problems. The Washington C. H. office is open every Thursday between the hours of 9:30 A. M. and 3:30 P. M.

"Smith not only helps office callers to understand their rights or obligations under rent control, but also through his contacts with renters and owners he learns of ways in which our service to the public can be improved," the rent director pointed out.

"As a result, our decisions and procedures can be kept more in line with the actual problems of tenants and landlords," Barton said.

The consultant position was created last year at the direction of Congress to help landlords and tenants get their rights under rent control, Barton explained. This was done because some persons owning only a few rental properties were reluctant to apply for adjustments when they did not fully understand the steps to be taken. Even tenants shared this hesitancy to face the unknown, Barton said.

"Now the word has gotten around that a man at the rent office—meaning our landlord-tenant consultant—will help unravel even the most difficult rent problem," the director added, "and an increasing number of persons phone or write in to say how much they appreciate the courteous help given by Smith."

For tenants the consultant can provide service or information when facing eviction, seeking restoration of reduced services, applying for rent reductions or refund of overcharges, or planning to take court action on their own initiative in cases of overcharge on other violations.

On the landlord's problems, the consultant can help when the owner is seeking a rent adjustment, inquiring about steps to be taken to gain possession of his rental unit, or planning changes in his property that will justify either an increase in the maximum rent or possible decontrol.

Soviet War Plans

(Continued from Page One) blockade. But he adds that there is a margin of hope for peace in the realization by the Kremlin that it would be difficult to sell the Soviet people on a war of aggression.

To beat Soviet propaganda,

Stevens writes, the West must put its own economic house in power. While avoiding outright appeasement, it must explore every possibility for genuine agreement. The West, he says, should miss no opportunity to go over the heads of the Soviet leaders, directly to the Russian people. The Voice of America has made "a splendid beginning" on these lines, as indicated by the frantic Russian jamming on the broadcasts, he says, adding:

"Even today, what filters through the wall of interference is a far more powerful weapon than the atom bomb—a weapon for peace that reaches men's minds and creates, instead of destroying."

As matters stood in 1949, Stevens calculated that the eventual armed clash of the two systems would come in the long run. But the West must remember, he adds, that "despite doctrinaire aims and outlook, the Soviet leaders are fully capable of changing their minds." He recalls that Stalin himself once proclaimed that "the logic of things is the strongest of all logic."

Dangerous Leaders

Who are these leaders who boldly balance the pros and cons of world holocaust? The most powerful today, under Stalin, says Stevens, is a man who knows nothing of the West from first-hand experience, a man who is young enough to have grown up intellectually under Stalin's complete domination.

He is Georgi Malenkov, whose recent rise at Stalin's right hand has been meteoric. Lacking mass appeal, he dislikes the limelight and prefers to pull wires behind scenes. But he occupies today the same strategic post which Stalin held in relation to the declining Lenin.

Malenkov has used this position to carry out a quiet purge of possible opponents, always carefully consolidating himself before making a new advance. At home his policy meant tightening up against unrelies, including renewed discrimination against Jews. Abroad it meant tightening control of control of cominform countries, ruthless elimination of Titoism, arbitrary imposition of the Soviet economic and police pattern on the satellite states.

But his caution, says Stevens, is reflected in the lifting of the Berlin blockade when thought it had gone as far as it safely could, and in the fact that the campaign against Yugoslavia's Tito stopped short of armed invasion.

Molotov On Decline

For a time Malenkov apparently ranked about even with Lavrenty P. Beria, the power behind the secret police, but Beria did not appear to Stevens to be aspiring any higher. Vice Premier V. M. Molotov appears to be in partial eclipse, the writer says, and more in decline than ever in Stalin's increasing retirement.

(Nevertheless, the best indications filtering through Moscow censorship are that Molotov still is the No. 2 man, Stalin's right hand, at least for the public's benefit.

In passing, Stevens mentions Lazar Kaganovich, the only Jew on the politburo, reputed to be a party trouble shooter in matters concerning agriculture and heavy industry. Kaganovich manages to hold his own, but then, he is reputed to be the brother of Stalin's third wife.

Board and Room

By Gene Ahern

These leaders are apart from the Soviet people, who know little of what goes on in the Kremlin. Stevens writes that the great Soviet blood purge of the thirties, among other things, disclosed "the utter physical dependence, of the all-powerful Kremlin rulers on their NKVD (secret police) now the MVD) bodyguard. Stalin and his retinue no longer appeared in public unless all within gunshot had been carefully checked for security. The Kremlin itself was an armed camp, bristling with tommygunners, even on the alert to repel sudden attack."

Elections For Purpose

This is scarcely a picture of democracy, but Stevens says:

"In fostering the form, if not the substance, of democracy, Soviet Russia is probably the votingest country in the world."

Those near 100 per cent vote turnouts in elections of the single "ticket of the bloc of party and non-party Bolsheviks" are explained by Stevens as the result of the yeoman door-to-door work by party bell-pushers who rout the voters and get them to the polls, while the party goes through all the motions of a political campaign.

What the Russians finally elect, Stevens says, is what a Russian described to him as "the world's dullest parliament"—the supreme Soviet of the U. S. S. R.

The best indication of its importance, he says, is this: its proceedings are open to foreign correspondents and diplomats. Its duty, largely, is unanimous approval of an annual budget. Russia's next parliamentary elections are scheduled for March 12.

"When the constitution establishing the present parliamentary system was written," says Stevens, "Stalin and his assistants may well have honestly envisaged the gradual introduction of democratic feature."

"The police state, however, operates and evolves according to an inner logic of its own that not even Stalin can alter. In a sense, not even he can control the Frankenstein he helped to fashion. And the police state eyes even the least hint of genuine freedom and democracy with abhorrence and dread."

Children love vanilla tapioca in individual dishes, topped with a little crushed peanut brittle or a cherry.

Quick trick for dessert is to bake a ready-mix cake and serve it with a sauce. Leftover thickened fruit juice makes a good sauce and so does melted currant jelly.

Former Washington C. H. Man Is Honored by Goodyear Co.

P. W. LITCHFIELD, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company board chairman, left, presents Hugh Allen, of the company's public relations staff, with a lapel pin honoring his 30 years' service with the rubber firm. Allen is a native of Washington C. H.

Hugh Allen, a native of Washington C. H., today proudly wears in his coat lapel a pin emblematic of 30 years association with the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

The pin was presented to Allen by P. W. Litchfield, chairman of the Goodyear board, at a luncheon attended by top executives of the rubber company.

Allen has been one of the key members of the Goodyear public relations staff for many years.

He gave up a promising career in the newspaper field to join the Goodyear Co. on New Year's Day of 1920.

Although he was born in Washington C. H., July 4, 1882, he attended high school in Tacoma, Wash., and was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1906.

Savings Bond Sales Here Show Decline

Sales of Series E Saving Bonds in Fayette County during December 1949 dropped off one third

He worked on the editorial staffs of the Detroit Free Press and the Cleveland Plain Dealer and was editor of the Seattle, Wash., Star and South Bend, Ind., News-Times before going to Akron as the managing editor of the Akron Beacon-Journal from 1914 to 1920.

Airship Pioneer

Allen was the American representative on the Graf Zeppelin airship's early flights in the United States. He is widely known in the "lighter-than-air" aircraft field and is an intimate friend of Dr. Hugo Eckener, famed commander of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin, Admiral C. E. Rosendahl and Admiral T. G. W. Seattle.

He is the author of four historical books: "House of Goodyear," "Story of the Airship," "Why Has America No Rigid Airships?" and "Rubber's Home Town," a history of Akron.

He has a son and daughter, both of whom are married.

His brother, Howard C. Allen, secretary of the Fayette Auto Club, lives in Washington C. H. Hugh Allen manages several visits to his old home town every year, but his brother said he rarely has time for more than telephone calls or brief visits with his old friends.

from sales recorded during December of 1948, according to figures released today by Richard Rankin, bond sales chairman for the county.

The total during December of last year was only $18,487, compared to a figure of $27,656 in 1948.

On the other hand, figures for the entire state of Ohio went up from $241,379,000 for the year 1948 to $242,409,000 during 1949. "The American people owned $4 billion dollars more in E saving bonds at the close of 1949 than they held at the end of the war," according to Vernon L. Clark, national director of the U. S. savings bonds division.

"In 1949 the margin of Series E cash sales over redemptions was $759,701,000, or 53 per cent more than the corresponding figure of $495,148,000, for the year 1948. The net 1949 figure of $759,701,000 Series E Bond sales over cash-ins is a record for the peacetime program.

Sales Off Slightly

"Cash sales of Series E Bonds in 1949, totalling $4,207,598,000, off slightly, 4-10ths of 1 per cent, from the 1948 peacetime sales peak of $4,223,556,000. Redemptions of Series E Bonds in 1949 were substantially lower than 1948, with $3,447,896,000 for 1949 as against $3,728,408,000 for 1948, a decrease of 8 per cent. Sales are quoted at issue price as against redemptions at current redemption value."

Clark also points out; "Since they were first offered, May 1, 1941 through Dec. 31, 1949, Series E Bonds have been issued in the amount of $59,863,000,000. Redemptions were $26,097,000,000, leaving $33,766,000,000 worth in the hands of original purchasers. "Savings Bonds" are distributed broadly throughout the country. So far about 1,275,000,000 individual E Savings Bonds have been bought by the American people. The popular $25 and $50 denominations, bonds designed for sale to small investors, accounted for 84 per cent of the total number of pieces issued; 69 per cent $25 denomination, and 15 per cent $50 denomination. These two denominations are sold primarily to American employees under the Payroll Savings Plan."

"ITS SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD"

IT SHOULDN'T HAPPEN HERE!

The public has a right to know the truth about the threatened nation-wide telephone strike and its effect on Ohio.

While ballots in the Ohio Bell union election were still being counted, national officers of the Communication Workers of America, CIO, set February 8th as the deadline for a nation-wide telephone strike.

The CWA release stated:

"Picket lines will be established at all company exchanges where CWA members work... this would mean the picketing of almost every telephone exchange in the country."

THIS MAY MEAN YOUR EXCHANGE!

Local representatives of CWA-CIO state that no strike threat exists in Ohio. Yet they are quoted as saying that their members might refuse to cross picket lines. If union members do not come to work for any reason, your telephone service is threatened.

THE PUBLIC BE "JAMMED"

Typical of misleading statements of union leaders is their bogus promise concerning emergency service.

On the one hand, they tell their members—plus six million other CIO workers—to "jam" telephone lines with calls! "Break down the service!"

On the other hand they offer to set up special numbers for doctors, nurses, hospitals, police, firemen, and others so emergency calls can get through.

THIS WILL NOT WORK!

Here's the TRUTH about emergency service: NO ONE can get a call through a jammed telephone office, no matter how urgent that call may be.

NO ONE can predict where an emergency call will originate. It may come from any one of the more than 1,600,000 telephones served by this company. It may come from your telephone or from a neighbor who urgently needs a doctor or police protection.

The proper way to insure you and everyone dependable telephone service is by peaceful settlement of labor disputes through collective bargaining.

We believe the union shares with us a duty toward the public to maintain vitally needed telephone services. We are confident that the great majority of our employees share with us that sense of responsibility toward the public.

THE TRUTH ABOUT TELEPHONE WAGES

HERE ARE THE FACTS:

National CWA-CIO officers have said this about telephone wages:

"... both in relation to prices and in relation to wages of other workers (wage levels in the telephone industry) have grown progressively worse for the past ten years. Phone workers today find themselves almost at the bottom of the wage scale."

Wages of Ohio Bell employees rank with the best in the community, for comparable skills. Compare these wages of telephone people in Washington Court House with those paid in other businesses. We leave the comparison to you.

Telephone employees earn good wages the year around.

AVERAGE EARNINGS FOR OHIO BELL TELEPHONE PEOPLE

Top skilled craftsmen average	$81.00 per wk.	$4,200.00 per yr.
Switchboard operating employees average	$42.00 per wk.	$2,200.00 per yr.
(Washington Court House)
Those with 1 year's service average	$37.00 per wk.	$1,900.00 per yr.
Those with 5 years' service average	$43.00 per wk.	$2,200.00 per yr.

Wilmington, Bexley Play Here This Week

Coach Steve Lewis plans to shift the emphasis in this week's workouts as the WHS Lions ready themselves for a heavy week-end.

It will be Wilmington on Friday night and Bexley on Saturday, both at the WHS gym.

Lewis said the Lions will open practice drills Tuesday night and will concentrate on specific weaknesses that have shown up in their recent play.

"There won't be too much team play this week," said Lewis. "The individual weak spots have to be worked out and the fundamentals will be reviewed."

Lewis' eyes, as sharp as that yellow-knit tie he wears, has picked out a number of weaknesses that has opened up the Lion defense to opposition scoring.

One of the big ones is picking up a dribbler on the wrong side. Others come in the fundamentals of the game, which require a mental alertness working all the time and an unconscious, quick response to certain situations.

If the Lions can get over the 46-point mark, they'll break one of their hexes. In their last three defeats, they've lost by 46-55, 46-47 and 46-58.

The Lions have now lost twelve games and won but one, against Wilmington by 38-22. That lone

Kirkpatrick Girls Still Out in Front

Kirkpatrick's Funeral Home girls today continued sitting pretty at the top of the Ladies League after Monday night's bowling at Bowland when they made a clean sweep of their match with the Loudner quintet.

The Try-Me Taxi's, turned in one game of 901—which is right fair for the fair sex—but they won only two out of three from the Montgomery Warders to hold second place in the race.

The Morris Store outfit widened the gap separating them from the Funk Restaurant girls from Jeffersonville when they won the first two games before dropping the finale by 32 pins.

In a battle over the basement, the NCR girls pulled a little farther away from the last place Candymakers by winning the first and last games.

Rose Avenue Wins In Double Overtime

The Rose Avenue cagers smashed their way to their first win of the season by edging Cherry Hill in a thrilling double overtime battle at the Armory Monday afternoon, 32-30.

Lewis and Cotner were the heroes of the Rose Avenue quintet as they pumped in four very crucial baskets that brought victory to their team and sent the crowd into pandemonium.

Rose Avenue, a doormat this season with three defeats, trailed Cherry Hill through three periods and the fourth opened with them on the short end of a 22-15 count. They rallied and trailed by 26-24 in the closing seconds, as Lewis drove into tie it up at 26-26.

In the overtime period, Cotner of Rose Avenue made it 28-26, but Dawson of Cherry Hill came back fast with four points to move his team ahead 28-30. Lewis dropped one in tie it again, at 30-30, as the overtime ended.

In the second overtime period, also two minutes, the teams battled desperately on even terms until Cotner took a pass from Lewis and cut the cords with the winning basket, 32-30.

The victory boosted Coach Bob Summers' Rose Avenue crew out of the cellar, into fourth-place and dropped Cherry Hill into the basement.

Sunnyside puts its league lead on the line against Eastside in Tuesday's game while Rose Avenue will be shooting for third-place when they take on Central on Thursday.

Buck Cagers Rally To Beat Indiana

CHICAGO, Feb. 7 —(P)—Ohio State continued its stampeede to the Big Ten basketball title by rallying for a 56-55 win over Indiana last night.

The Buckeyes notched their eighth league win in nine starts as Dick Schnitker pumped in 27 points and set a conference free throw record of hitting 13 out of 13.

The best previous 1,000 per cent marks from the foul line were 7 for 7 by John Wallace of Indiana in 1946 and the same by Howie Williams of Purdue in 1949.

Last night's triumph was all the more choice for Ohio State for it was accomplished on Indiana's home floor, long noted as a difficult fortress to storm.

More Honors for Fesler
CHICAGO, Feb. 7 —(P)—Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity yesterday named Coach Wes Fesler of Ohio State University its most outstanding alumnus during 1949. He will receive an award in Chicago March 3.

The leading 17-year-old horse of 1949 was So Good, a gelded son of Waygood-My Sweetie, which in three starts at Billings, Mont., earned $30, finishing fourth on one occasion.

29.7-pt. Average Is Best in State

COLUMBUS, Feb. 7 —(P)—This week's high school basketball story is a bowling story.

We refer to Marv Bowling, 6-5 center for Coach Joe Jenkins' Glenwood high team at New Boston. Big Marv is the state's No. 1 point-getter, and if you want to know why college coaches are courting the 17-year-old star, just take a look at his game-by-game totals.

In his 13 contests, Marv has hit for 26, 29, 32, 16, 18, 37, 35, 19, 26, 29, 45 and 43.

All that adds up to 387 points and a 29.7 average.

High Cost of Play Blocks Cage League

It seems like the dollar still determines whether a fellow stands on a street corner or engages in healthful recreation.

Two teams have balked at the $25 entry fee to enter the Recreation Basketball League here, which was to open at the Armory Thursday night.

However, Bloomingburg has paid its fee. The Bloomingburg cagers are being sponsored by Looker's Restaurant, Watkins Grocery and Dr. D. E. Mossbarger.

Spokesmen for the American Legion and Company "M" said their fees would be in Tuesday and final word is awaited from a tentative sponsor of the fourth team, which will take the sponsor's name.

The stumbling block to the league getting under way is the high cost of recreation here. According to Lt. Harold Finley, commanding officer of the Armory, the cost of renting the Armory for one night is $15.

Finley says the rental is required by state law.

The rental cost for one night, added to referee's fees, will boost the cost of running the league to between $20 and $25 just for one night. The teams forming the league had originally planned to play two nights a week.

The entry fee of $25 was set at a meeting of representatives of the teams to insure that the league would get through the first round and then play the second round on donations collected from the first round's games.

As it stands of this moment, there may be four teams playing Thursday and there may not.

Dutchman Sees America on $25 And Gratitude of Two Yanks

CUMBERLAND, Md. — A big, bespectacled Dutchman with a boyish grin is back home now, telling all his friends about his month-long visit in the States—all for $25. That is, $25 and the gratitude of a couple of Yanks he helped escape from Nazi-held Holland during the war.

Harm Davidse, 36-year-old employee of the Netherlands Railway, was eligible for passes to travel by train all over Europe. Why, he asked himself this summer, not get one to America? He took the matter up with the railroad. The railway management started negotiations.

The Holland-America line agreed to furnish him passage, including meals. And on this side, the Baltimore and Ohio honored his Dutch railroad pass.

But his country informed him he could bring only 25 of those dollars back to the country that made them famous. They were needed too badly at home.

At the dock at Hoboken, N. J., he learned how fast they could disappear. The customs inspectors took six as duty on souvenirs he had brought for his friends. Another six went for a taxi to the railroad station.

By the time he reached Cumberland, half of the $25 was gone. But there, he found he didn't need even that much.

Jack C. Murrell, 27, met him at the station and whisked him to the Murrell home just across the river at Ridgely, W. Va. The two hadn't seen each other since the dark days of 1944.

Murrell was a second lieutenant then in Uncle Sam's Army. He had parachuted from a crippled C-47 after dropping paratroopers in the vicinity of Arnhem. He broke his leg in the fall "right smack in the middle of two German Panzer divisions," as Jack puts it. He was picked up by the Nazis and hospitalized at Utrecht.

But he soon learned the Dutch underground was entrenched firmly within its guarded walls.

By the time Murrell was up and about, he had been furnished blue-prints of the hospital by alert Dutch hospital attendants. Through their help he and another American, Sgt. Wiley Moore of Asheville, N. C., escaped through a large conduct unknown to the Nazis that ran underground from the hospital basement to a power station outside the barricaded fence.

SYNOPSIS

Mark Dustin is on the point of buying his beautiful wife, Celia, a star ruby bracelet when Walter Voorland, the dealer, tells him the finest in the world, when Mike Shayne, a detective, questions its authenticity. Unperturbed, Voorland convincingly explains the bracelet's rare qualities, and Mark, reassured, fits it on Celia's wrist. He buys it when told it can be insured at full purchase price, one hundred eighty thousand dollars, plus tax. Fear grips Celia who had seen a poor girl when the fabulous bauble is delivered to their luxurious auto suite. Her premonition of evil is fulfilled later that night when their car is held up by bandits who cruelly beat Mark and snatch the fortune in treasure from Celia's wrist.

CHAPTER TEN

BEFORE LONG the doctor had Dustin's broken hand swathed in bandages which he assured the suffering man would take care of it until he could get it X-rayed and properly set. Three fingers were broken, and two smaller bones in the hand itself, he explained, and as soon as the first shock wore off he should go to a hospital for a thorough examination.

He picked up his bag and went out. Celia went to the telephone and ordered something to drink sent up. Then she resettled herself beside her husband while Peter Painter stood in the center of the room and regarded the couple disapprovingly.

In his opinion, any tourist who ventured out in Miami wearing a fortune in jewelry was a congenital fool and deserved whatever happened to him. Moreover, they were a great nuisance to him and his department and were always kicking up a stink in the newspapers if their stolen property was not recovered within a few hours, which it seldom was. Such robberies made bad publicity, and were frowned upon by the City Fathers to whom Painter owed his job.

The detective chief was small and slender, with a threadlike black mustache. His taste in clothes was fastidious, and now he thrust both hands deep in the patch pockets of a gray suede jacket and said, "You say tonight is the first time you've worn the bracelet, Mrs. Dustin?"

"Yes. We just bought it today," "It wasn't delivered until today," Mark corrected her. "We actually bought it last Monday, but I didn't take possession until the insurance was fixed up and my check cleared through my bank."

"How many people knew you were going to wear it tonight?" "No one. No one could possibly have known. Celia threw a frightened glance at her husband. "I hadn't told anyone, Mark. I swear"

I hadn't. It was to be a complete surprise at the concert tonight. Those men must have seen me wear it when I went through the hotel lobby," she went on rapidly, "and followed us when we drove away."

"From your story of the hold-up it sounds like a well-planned crime... by an organized gang," Painter lifted his right hand from his pocket and thumbnailed his mustache. His black eyes flashed from Celia to Mark. "Hardly the sort of thing to be got up on the spur of the moment. Besides, how would any crook know how valuable the bracelet was... with just one look at it as you went through the lobby?"

"But they could tell," said Celia spiritedly. "Mr. Voorland said that anyone could instantly recognize a star ruby as the real thing... and professional jewel thieves certainly must know about prices... and all that."

"Chief Painter is right," Mark told her wearily. "That job has all the earmarks of careful planning. Voorland knew you planned to wear it tonight," he went on slowly. "I told him on Monday when we bought it and then reminded him a couple of times afterwards. He knows how much it's worth, too."

Peter Painter bristled. The detective chief appeared to strut while standing perfectly still in his polished shoes. He shook his head emphatically. "Not Walter Voorland. He wouldn't be mixed up in anything like this. He has run that store for twenty years and has the most exclusive clientele on the beach."

"Mark..." Celia timidly plucked at his sleeve and lowered her voice. "There was somebody else. Voorland's friend of the store Monday? He knew how much it cost, and he heard us say I wanted to wear it to the concert tonight."

"Nonsense," said Dustin impatiently. "He's a detective, not a jewel thief."

"What's that?" Painter stepped closer, inclining his head. "A detective? Who?" "Celia just remembered there was another couple in the store when we bought the bracelet and told Mr. Voorland she wanted to wear it tonight," Dustin explained. "But the man was a private detective. The girl was his secretary. Besides, he was a good friend of Mr. Voorland's."

"A private detective," Painter's voice was sharp. "What was his name?"

"Michael Shayne. I imagine you've heard of him around town."

"Shayne? Heard of him?" Painter whirled and strutted to the telephone.

It was evening, and they were together in the downtown apartment on the bank of the Miami River which had been home to Shayne during his bachelor years.

He had turned it into an office during the period when he was married to Phyllis. Returning to Miami after two years in New Orleans he had been fortunate enough to secure his old apartment again.

It was in New Orleans that he met Lucy Hamilton, hired her as his secretary, and eventually found himself making a confidante of her. Lucy was more like Phyllis than any girl he had ever met, and during the months in New Orleans he sensed that there was growing between them a feeling more intimate than that of employer and confidential secretary. He had gone to New Orleans thinking that getting away from the apartment might ease the sorrow of losing Phyllis. Six months ago he had returned to Miami, feeling that in fairness to Lucy and himself a separation would give them a chance to objectively consider what their future relations should be.

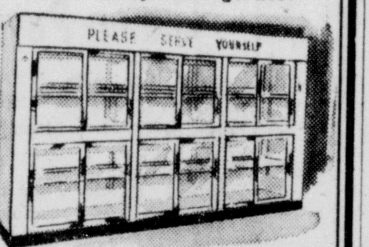

Lucy had a single room down the hall, and this afternoon she had come in with a bag of groceries, competently taken over the kitchenette in his apartment, and cooked a dinner for two which she served charmingly on a small table in the living room.

She proved to be a splendid cook. She concocted what she called "Poor-girl steak" consisting of beef ground twice with a small piece of bacon. To complete the meal she served baked yams, and biscuits of her own devising, with garlic-flavored gravy and black coffee. She wore a frilly blue and white apron over a white skirt and blue blouse, and was very domestic and matter-of-fact as she cleared the table and washed the dishes while Shayne settled himself comfortably with a noggin of cognac and a cigarette in the shabbily furnished living room.

Dairy Problems Are Discussed

Local Association Holds Meeting

Artificial breeding for beef cattle will soon be available to farmers in this county, Richard Kellogg, manager of the Central Ohio Breeding Association, said in a statement made at the second annual meeting of the Fayette County Dairy Association Monday night.

Sixty farmers and their families enjoyed a covered dish supper. An interesting program on dairy problems was carried out during the session, held at the Dayton Power and Light Co. auditorium.

R. R. Starbuck, extension dairyman gave a very interesting talk on why dairymen should keep production records. Starbuck pointed out that good dairymen can produce milk at $1.90 per hundred at present prices. He warned those present that to do this good job, it will require their using the latest available information through the agricultural extension office.

Several musical numbers were presented by Hugh Wilson and Dixie Lee Ellison accompanied by Helen Louise Hynes and the Triple Trio of Washington C. H. High School. Those taking part were Marilyn Cunningham, Dixie DeWees, Sue Paul, Sharon Rettig, Barbara Manahan, Jean Scholl, Rebecca Armbrust, Doris Brown and Nancy Spencer, accompanied by Helen Louise Hynes.

Artificial breeding has doubled in the county during the last year according to Dale Smith, dairy technician. Smith gave a very complete report of the rapid growth in the county since the service started 18 months ago.

Smith estimated that probably one thousand calves have been born from the superior sires of the Central Ohio Breeding Association. He said more than 200 farmers are using artificial breeding service. Smith stated that the cooperation of the farmers has been splendid since this program started.

Resolution Adopted

E. J. Cunningham presented the resolutions which were adopted. They follow:
"Be it resolved that since superior sires are most essential to a successful dairy program, that this organization continue to support the artificial breeding program in this county.

"Resolved that this organization recognizes the splendid benefits derived from production testing and that this organization support the program vigorously.

"Resolved that this organization recognizes the need for more and better 4-H dairy projects and that this organization will support the program whole heartedly.

"Resolved that since a successful dairying program is essentially a soil conservation program, that this organization cooperate in any way possible with the Fayette County Soil Conservation District Supervisors and the Agricultural Extension Service.

"Resolved that since a good herd health is essential for man and animals that this organization support a sound herd health program."

Directors elected for a two year term were: William B. Dunn, Wayne Township; Carl Jones, Jefferson Township; Robert Klever, Marion Township; Charles Hiser, Jasper Township and E. J. Cunningham, Union Township.

Preston Dray, president of the Fayette County Dairy Association, presided.

A movie was presented by Leo Fisher of the Fayette Limestone Company, on human and animal nutrition.

Super Market Installs All New Fixtures

Open House Set For Wednesday at Eavey Store Here

When the Eavey Super Market on West Court Street reopens Wednesday night after having been closed two weeks, it will have all new equipment of the latest design.

For two weeks workmen have been busy removing all old equipment, and redecorating the room throughout, as well as installing new fixtures, some of which are entirely new in this part of Ohio.

Not only has the room occupied by Eavey's been redecorated in attractive colors, but new flooring has been laid, and marlite used on the walls of the meat department.

The latest in McCrea refrigeration units has been installed, with modern gondola counters, which place all goods within easy reach of customers.

Modern lighting has been installed, with indirect lighting for all wall counters.

A 62-foot produce counter is a feature of the new store. A 34-foot refrigerating unit is the highlight of the meat department, which will be in charge of Irvin (John) Johnson, who comes to the store from Hillsboro.

New type check-out counters have been installed, which have a revolving platform, making it possible for the check-out operators to handle three orders at one time. So far as known, only one other store, located in Dayton, has the new counters.

The only equipment formerly used will be the cash registers, Harold R. Burris, manager, said in discussing the new store.

"Open House" will be held Wednesday night from 7 to 9 P. M., during which time the store will be open for public inspection.

THAT STUDY NOOK

When it's homework time for the young fry it's usually headache time for ma and pa. But you can eliminate a lot of the book-time bogey by providing an attractive, efficient study nook for your child.

A well-lighted, well-ventilated corner of his bedroom, or any room, will do the trick. Just remember - that it must be efficient as well as attractive.

So first provide a comfortable straight chair and a desk, or table. If there are two children, two tables can be arranged to conserve space with the use of one good lamp.

If there's a window available and there should be, drape it in attractive dark colors, and group the desk or desks in front of it. Then, on the wall, assuming it's a corner nook, place a large blackboard with a roll-down map to provide an occasional change of scenery.

To complete the picture add a small, low book-case... just for his use. And be sure there's a large waste-basket within hitting distance.

You'll be surprised at the peace and quiet at homework time when there's a special place for your children to study.

THE COST of our Nation's Security

...must be shared by ALL!

Unless all pay their fair share, you must pay MORE. Right now, Congress is considering increasing federal income taxes on present taxpayers to meet the terrific costs of paying for the last war... guarding against another.

...yet some big business corporations pay little or NOTHING

Corporations engaged in commercial, profit-making business—such as Co-operatives, Foundations, even some colleges and universities—are permitted by law and outdated Treasury regulations to escape all or most of income taxes on business income and profits. The billion dollars a year that they are able to dodge in income taxes is now added onto what the rest of us must pay. Now Congress is being asked to add still more to the tax burden you are bearing. Congress should TAX THE UNTAXED FIRST before increasing federal income taxes on anyone.

WRITE your Congressman and Senators—ask them to tax the untaxed...now!
